

Tiritiri Matangi is a special place - and with your help it can become even more so.

Tiritiri Matangi is an open sanctuary, and provides a special opportunity to see some of our rarest birds and other species.

Since 1984 over 280,000 trees have been planted by thousands of volunteers. These provide new habitat for released species such as the red-crowned parakeet, North Island saddleback, whitehead, brown teal, takahe, North Island robin, little spotted kiwi, stitchbird, North Island kokako, fernbird, tuatara and rifleman.

While Tiritiri Matangi is an outstanding success, the project still requires help. We continue to improve habitat and visitor facilities, fund research and visitor education programmes.

This is where YOU can be involved.

Supporters of Tiritiri Matangi Inc.

The Supporters of Tiritiri Matangi is a not-for-profit volunteer group founded in 1988 to further the aims of the Tiritiri Matangi conservation project.

Our four main areas of activity are:

- to protect and conserve New Zealand's wildlife
- to support research on biodiversity and ecosystems
- to educate and inspire visitors
- to provide opportunities for volunteers and visitors to be involved in the project
